To the Public.—The althoot universal encouragement and support I have received from the public, since the introduction of my Aromatic Schiedam Schnapps, induces me to say a few words in its behalf, that its qualities may be theroughly understood, and the very few objections which have been raised against it entirely answered. I have mover claimed for it the virtues of a specific for all diseases, but simply that its medicinal properties as a pure article of Holland gin were unapproached by any other description of glu seve manufactured. In order to establish its purity and szcellence, and assure the public that diseases, experience, and assure the public that the secondary and szcellence, and assure the public that the secondary and the medical profession they have furnished me with the most unequival of the secondary in the formal and the medical profession they have furnished me with the most unequival of the secondary in the furnished me with the most unequival of the secondary in the furnished me with the most unequival of the secondary in the secondary ino

A $3 Hat for $2 50.—J. R. Feeny, 52 1-2 Bowery, offers to the public a spring style hat for $2 50, equal to any new sold in New York for $3. But one price. The public can judge for themselves.

The public can judge for the spring of 1853, stands among its competitors like a well proportioned and graceful temple among architectural structures of a ruder and heavier type. This is what the public say, and it cannot be deemed egotism to echo public opinion. The finish, texture, shape, and "mountings," of the Genin spring hat for this season have not been equalled in this country, it is believed, at any price, although the figure at Genin's remains fixed at $4.

GENIN, 214 Broadway, opposite St. Paul's.

We met a well-known Politician in Nassau street, last Tuesday, whose countenance betokened so much uneasiness that we fancied be had been on to Washington, and had come back a disappointed office-seeker. Inquiring the cause of his trouble, he informed me that he had been to Washington to witness the inauguration, and in the crowd he lost his hat. He was then compelled to buy a new one;
"and," he added, "I have been in the fidgets, every time I have worn it, since. I am now hastening to KNOX'S, 128 Fulton street, to get one of his easy fitting, elastic and comely-looking hats. In all my experience, sir, I have found no hats to equal his."

The Products of Skill and Genius.—If there is any article of costume that demands in its manufacture rkill and taste, an appreciation of the wants of the public, and a therough knowledge of the blending of effects, it is the last, for the artizan, to suit the varied forms and expressions of the human countenance, requires more than a mere meshanical experience can supply. To understand this, visit the sales room of Messrs. KNOX & JAMES, corner of Broadway and Spring street, and compare their hat, appropriately asmed the "Clasical," with a less pretentious article exhibited for the enlightenment of their customers. Though the latter is made of the finest materials, it lacks the spirit, dash and originality that characterizes the former, and there can be but few so dull of comprehension as not to perceive the difference at a glance. Their uniform price is four dollars, and their assortment of spring hats is now ready for public inspection.

Hyatt's Life Balsam, the Certain Conqueror of rheumstism, scrofals, king's 'evil, neuralgis, and all diseases flowing from great impurity of blood, no matter of how long standing, or from what source derived. Mr. J. Brown, 65 Greenwich street, was attacked with rheumstism a year since. He was treated by affer physicians for nearly six months, his case all the time growing worse, till his left side was nearly paralysed, the arm and hand hanging useless by his side. He then had recourse to the Life Balsam. Two bettles gave him the use of his limbs, and two more restored him to excellent health, Mrs. Burton, 12 Eldridge street, was for years most terribly afflicted with scrofula; some of the ulcers had consumed the flesh to the bone on the head and other parts of the system. After all other medical treatment had failed, she was perfectly cured by the Life Balsam in about a month. Mr. G. D. Davis, corner Broadway and Forticth street, was for years so severely afflicted with rheumatism and neuralgia that he was reduced to a skeleton, weighing little over 100 pounds; he could not sleep an hour without opiates; no treatment gave any relief until he took the Life Balsam; one bottle removed every pain, and restored him to entire health; he now weighs 170 pounds. One thousand cases equal to these have been published in the New York Herald, Sun, and other papers, certificates of which oan beseen at the principal depot, 246 Grand street. 75 cents per battles. Cittles for $4.
